Heard.
These special leave petitions are filed against the interim order directing the Management to deposit 50% back wages to each of the respondents/workers within three months. In the same order, the High Court has directed that on such deposit being made, it will be invested in a bank. While ordering notice in all special leave petitions, this Court granted stay of the impugned order in SLP(C)NO. 22422 of 2008 on 13th August, 2008.

In view of the fact that the main writ petition is pending in the High Court which is of the year 2006, we feel that ends of justice would be met by requesting the High Court to take up the main writ petition and dispose of the same as early as possible preferably within six months. The interim order granted on 13th August, 2008 in SLP(C)No. 22422 of 2008 shall continue till the disposal of the writ petition.

The special leave petitions are disposed of.
