As a result of such persistent harassment and cruelty, the complainant frequently fell ill and the accused persons has not provided her proper medical treatment and medicines. Further, the accused persons also neglected the proper care of her minor son. Several village panchayats and reconciliation efforts were undertaken; however, the accused persons have consistently refused to keep the complainant with them unless their demand for dowry is fulfilled. At the time of marriage, the complainant's father, according to his financial capacity, provided jewellery worth approximately ₹2,00,000/-, furniture, clothes, utensils, and other household articles worth approximately ₹3,00,000/-, and also paid cash amounting to ₹2,00,000/- to the groom's side. Despite receiving the aforesaid gifts and cash, the accused persons, shortly after the marriage, started demanding an additional sum of ₹1,00,000/- and one Hero motorcycle as dowry. Since the complainant has been residing at her parental home, her husband has not paid even a single rupee towards her maintenance or the maintenance of their child. He has neither enquired about the welfare of the complainant nor that of his son. Her husband is unwilling to resume cohabitation with the complainant or discharge his responsibilities towards his child. The complainant has also learnt that her husband has fallen into bad company and is maintaining illicit relations and living with other women. Hence this complaint.
