The Inspector of Police of Jayanagar Police Station, Bengaluru has filed Police Report against the above named accused No.1 to 4 for the offences punishable under Sections 120B, 420, 465 and 471 of the Indian Penal Code. The accused No.2 to 4 are already acquitted in main C.C.No.22812/2008 dated 12.02.2018. This is a split up case against accused No.1.

2. It is the case of the Prosecution that these accused have purchased the lorry bearing its No.MH-19-J-9621 from CW6. These accused without registering the said Lorry before the Maharashtra State has created RC and NOC and submitted before the RTO Bengaluru on showing that the said RTO has issued No Objection Certificate to register the said vehicle before the Karnataka RTO and played fraud. The information was lodged against these accused by RTO of Jayanagara.

3. Based on the First Information of CW1, the crime was registered. Accused No.2 to 4 are already acquitted in C.C.No.22812/2008 as per Judgment dated 12.02.2018. This is a Split-Up case against accused No.1. He was absconding and NBW and Proclamation and Attachment Warrant was issued against him.

4. To prove the charges framed against accused No.1, it is on record that accused No.2 to 4 are acquitted of the same crime in C.C.No.22812/2008 dated 12.02.2018 and accordingly as the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India and Hon'ble High Court of Karnataka reported in many judgments that when the trial was held against one of the accused in respect of the same offence and in the second round of the trial against the remaining accused, the evidence cannot be different from the one that was produced by the Prosecution in the earlier case. The examination of the accused under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. was dispensed with. Accordingly the matter was heard and posted for judgment.

5. Perused the materials available on record.

6. The points for determination are:-

1. Whether prosecution has proved the offence charged against accused No.1 for the offences punishable under Sections 120B, 420, 465 and 471 of the Indian Penal Code beyond reasonable doubt?

2. What order or sentence?

7. My answers to the above points are as follows:

Point No.1 : In the Negative,

Point No.2 : As per final order for the following:-

REASONS

8. POINT No.1 :- It is the case of the Prosecution that accused No.2 to 4 in original C.C.No.22812/2008 along with this split up accused No.1 had played fraud by creating RC and NOC and tried to get registered before the RTO, Jayanagara.

9. Accused No.1 was reported absconded and NBW and Proclamation and Attachment Warrant was issued against him.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has ruled in many reports including reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1155 in Javed Shaukat Ali Qureshi v. State Of Gujarat and was decided on September 13, 2023 that when the trial was held against one of the accused in respect of the same offences and in the second round of the trial against the remaining accused, the evidence cannot be different from the one that was produced by the Prosecution in the earlier case. This Split up accused No.1 is also entitled for the said benefit of doubt as it was extended to his co-accused. Accused No.1 can be acquitted on benefit of doubt. In this case, in respect of the same crime accused No.2 to 4 were acquitted by my Predecessor in original C.C.No.22812/2008 dated 12.02.2018 on trial. In the said original C.C.No.22812/2008 my Predecessor has held that the Prosecution has not proved the offences alleged against these accused beyond all reasonable doubts and accused No.2 to 4 were acquitted. Without any sufficient evidence my Predecessor has acquitted the accused No.2 to 4. In this case also this Court finds that when the Prosecution were unable to prove the case against the accused No.2 to 4, this accused No.1 is also entitled for the benefit of acquittal in original C.C.No.22812/2008. The matter is pending since 2010. Further, it is the settled principle of law that when the Court comes to the conclusion that when there is no merits on the case, the presence of the accused is not necessary to pronounce the judgment. Section 353(6) of the Cr.P.C. mandates that if an accused is not in custody, they must attend Court to hear the judgment, unless personal attendance was dispensed with and the sentence is only a fine or acquittal. If one of multiple accused is absent, the Court can proceed with pronouncing the judgment to avoid delay. That if the Court concludes there is no merit in the case and intends to acquit the accused, or if the sentence is only a fine, the presence of the accused is not necessary for the pronouncement of the judgment. Accordingly, the argument of the learned Senior APP holds no grounds. As per the Reports of the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India this Court finds that when the trial was held against one of the accused in respect of the same offences and in the second round of the trial against the remaining accused, the evidence cannot be different from the one that was produced by the Prosecution in the earlier case. This Split up accused No.1 is also entitled for the said benefit of doubt. Accordingly, I answer Point No.1 in the Negative.

11. POINT No.2 :- For the reasons stated in Point No.1, the prosecution has not proved the guilt of accused No.1 for the offences charged against him beyond all reasonable doubts. Therefore, accused No.1 is not found guilty for the offence punishable under Sections 120B, 420, 465 and 471 of the Indian Penal Code. In the result, I proceed to pass the following:-

ORDERS

Under Section 248(1) of Cr.P.C, accused No.1 is hereby acquitted for the offences punishable under Sections 120B, 420, 465 and 471 of the Indian Penal Code.

Office is hereby directed to keep the entire file along with Split up Criminal Case of accused No.2 to 4 in main C.C.No.22812/2008.
