Accused present. Copies furnished. He is examined U/sec. 239 Cr.P.C. He is admitted the offence U/sec. 324 of IPC, and pleaded guilty. I am satisfied that the plea of accused is voluntarily. As such, accused is convicted under section 252 Cr.P.C. Accused is heard on quantum of sentence. He is stated that his entire familie is dependant upon on his earnings and that he is the sole earning member of his familie and prayed for mercy of the court. As per the material available on record there is no weapon through which injuries inflicted is neither recovered nor be deposited and as per the MC the injuries received are simple in nature. Hence there is no possibility to give the maximum punishment U/sec. 324 IPC. As such by considering all these attending circumstances and also considering the occupation, social circumstances of the accused this court felt it just and appropriately impose minimum punishment. As the plea of the accused is voluntary in nature provisions of P.O. Act cannot be invoked.
