The contents of compromise petition were read over to the plaintiff and defendant in the language known to them in the presence of their learned counsels. Parties have agreed the contents of joint compromise petition as true. On enquiry the parties have submitted that there is no compulsion or force to arrive settlement of their dispute. As per the compromise petition, the defendant has agreed to pay Rs.4,50,000/- in 18 installments. The parties have compromised or settled their dispute regarding plaint prayers. Hence it is an absolute compromise to the satisfaction of the Court that the suit has been adjusted wholly or the parties have settled their entire dispute mentioned in the plaint. As discussed above the parties have compromised entire subject matter of the suit with their satisfaction and compromise is freely reported by the parties voluntarily. On enquiry it appears that there is no compulsion, coercion or fraud on parties to reach compromise. Hence following:
