

Orders on amendment application
under Order 6 Rule 17 of CPC

Plaintiff wants to amend the schedule by deleting the incorrect boundaries and by adding one schedule property.

In the affidavit it is submitted that this is the suit for partition and that the said amendment is necessary for adjudication.

Advocate for defendants files objections that evidence is commenced and there is no due diligence and there is no document to substantiate the said amendment and that the said amendment would change the nature of the suit.

Heard respective advocates. This application is filed during stage of cross examination of Pw1. The amendment is necessary as it is on the point of identification of the suit properties. Further defendants will have opportunity to cross examine on the said point. No documents is required to examine the amendment application, as it is not on the point of merits that such application is filed. Further it do not change the nature of the suit and hence for the above reasons, the application is allowed.

For amendment and for amended plaint.
