Order dt. 02. 11. 22

Today is fixed for passing of order.

This case is taken up for passing order.

I have already perused the complaint and initial deposition as made by the complainant. On perusing both the written complaint and initial deposition. I do not find any prima facie case in favour of the complainant. Complainant has every right to initiate malicious prosecution against the accused persons but allegations are not fit and invoking Section 500, IPC against the accused persons .
