arguments of both sides and having stood over under my consideration till date, this Court delivers the following:

Order

The petitioners claim maintenance for the sum of Rupees 40,000/- per month towards petitioners per month and with cost.

1. The averments of the petition in brief:-

The first petitioner and respondent got married on 02.09.2004. The petitioner has performed all the acts as dutiful wife. The second and third petitioners born out of the wedlock. The petitioner is striving hard for living and managing child. The respondent is living in adulterous life. The Police complaint was lodged of Vaniyambadi AWPS. Hence the first petitioners requires maintenance for maintaining basic necessity. The respondent was earning a sum of rupees 50,000/- from the job of bus and lorry driver. The respondent is owning two acres of land. Hence the petition.

2. Points for consideration:

1. Whether the respondent is having obligation to maintain the petitioners ?
2. Whether the petitioners are having sufficient means to maintain them self?
3. Whether the petitioners are entitled for maintenance ?

4. Whether the first petitioner is entitled for a sum of rupees 40,000/- per month towards maintenance ?

5. To what other relief the petitioner are entitled to ?

3. Points No.1 to 4

The maintenance case is filed by the petitioners claiming maintenance for a sum of Rupees 40,000/- per month towards petitioners.

4. The respondent was set ex-parte for not filing counter. The petitioners side examined Pw1 and marked Ex.P1 to Ex.P6. This Court proceeded the case on the basis of materials available on record.

5. The Ex.P1 is a Xerox copy of Wedding Invitation and Ex.P.4 is Xerox copy of Aadhar card of first petitioner. The perusal of said documents would show that first petitioner and respondent got married on 02.09.2004 and the petitioners are resident of Natrampalli. It is crystal clear that the relationship between first petitioner and respondent as husband and wife is well established. The Ex.P.2 is Birth Certificate of second petitioner and Ex.P.3 is Birth Certificate of third petitioner. The status of second and third petitioners as son and daughter of first petitioner and respondent is well established. There is no dispute regarding said fact.

6. The Ex.P.5 is a copy of petition in AWPS, Vaniyambadi Police Station. Ex.P.6 is receipt of AWPS, Vaniyambadi. The documents would show that the respondent did not maintain the petitioners. The Police complaint was also lodged. So, the respondent is evading to maintain the petitioners.

7. The evidence of Pw1, Ex.P1 to Ex.P6 are sufficient to establish that the petitioners are striving hard for basic necessities. The respondent did not come forward to dispute the means of petitioners. The evidences of petitioners are sufficient to arrive that they requires maintenance for meeting out basic necessities.

8. The assets and liabilities filed by the first petitioner would show that the petitioners did not have means and sufficient means to maintain themselves. The respondent did not come forward to dispute and also test the veracity of evidence of petitioners. The evidence is neither tested nor confronted by the respondent.

9. The petitioners may requires at least a sum of five hundred rupees per day for meeting out the basic necessities. Considering the prevailing facts and circumstances, basic requirements to lead a life, this Court is of opinion that the first petitioner may require a sum of Rs.15,000/- per month, the second and third petitioner may require a sum of Rs.9,000/- each to meet out the basic necessities such as food, shelter, clothing, medical and educational expenses etc. Therefore, this Court determines that the first petitioner is entitled to a sum of Rs.15,000/- and, second and third petitioners are each entitled to a sum of Rs.9,000/- per month to maintain themselves. The petitioners are entitled for maintenance from the date of petition. The respondent is directed to pay the arrears amount within the period of three months from the date of order.
