This petition is coming before me for hearing today in the presence of Thiru.S.Balaji, learned counsel for the petitioners, the learned Public Prosecutor for the respondent and, after hearing both sides, this court, delivered the following:

2. The learned counsel for the petitioner with support of the petition averments submitted that the above case was registered on the basis of a false complaint given by the defacto complainant stating that there was a wordy quarrel aroused between the petitioner and the defacto complainant. The petitioner is innocent and he is no way connected with the case and there is no previous case as against him and he is ready to furnish sufficient sureties to ensure his regular attendance and abide by any condition imposed by this Court, and prays that the petitioner may be granted bail.

3. The learned Public Prosecutor filed his objection and submitted that there are two accused in this case and the petitioner is arrayed as A2 and the injured was discharged from the hospital and there is no previous case is pending as against the petitioner and the investigation is going on and he strongly opposed to grant anticipatory bail to the petitioner.

4. Heard both sides. Records perused. On perusal of FIR, it reveals that due to a domestic dispute between the defacto complainant and her husband Praveen Kumar/co accused. The petitioner/A2 along with co accused assaulted the defacto complainant and her relative Prakash. It is further alleged that co accused/A1 attempted to pour kerosene on the defacto complainant and threatened to set her on fire. Hence, the present case. Considering the above facts and circumstances of the case, nature of offence, injured discharged from the hospital, no previous case as against the petitioner and the stage of investigation, this court is inclined to grant anticipatory bail to the petitioner subject to the following conditions.
