State Vs.

TRF-

Present: APP for the State.

Summons/warrants issued to the accused received back unserved. Processes were issued several times on the address as given for securing the presence of the accused, but his presence could not be secured due to one reason or the other. In my opinion further issuance of processes shall waste precious time of the court and it shall also put unnecessary burden on the State exchequer. Considering this fact, proceedings are ordered to be closed under Section 258 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 with the rider that if at any stage accused appears or prosecution comes to know about the correct address of the accused. In that situation, on application of either of the parties, case shall be revived. Consequently, file be consigned to the record room, after due compliance.

State Vs. _____

Present: None.

Warrant of arrest issued against the accused received back unserved. Perusal of the file reflects that various processes have been issued against the accused on the address mentioned in the challan for securing his presence on several occasions, but his presence could not be secured due to one reason or the other. That being the case, further issuance of processes would be a sheer waste of precious time of the court and it would also put unnecessary burden on the State Exchequer. In these circumstances, the instant proceedings are ordered to be closed under Section 258 Cr.PC with the rider that if the accused subsequently appears or if the prosecution is able to procure the correct address of the accused at any stage, the instant proceedings shall be revived on application of either party. File be consigned to records after due compliance.
