ORDER

1] Challan is filed against the accused in respect of offences punishable under Section 184, 185 of Motor Vehicles Act. Accused appeared before the Court. Accordingly, plea of accused came to be recorded. It has been read over to him in his vernacular language. He has pleaded guilty for the aforesaid offences.

2] The plea of accused appears to me out of his own volition and without compulsion and without force. The same has been verified by me personally from accused.

3] Accused has pleaded for leniency in the sentence being a earner of meager salary and shouldering family responsibilities. So, in such scenario sending accused behind the bars is not justifiable. Taking into consideration all the aspect in totality including the fact of first conviction and level of alcohol in the blood of the accused, if accused is sentenced to pay fine, it would be fair enough to meet the ends of justice.

4] In the result, I pass the following order.
