Offence under Section 109 of IPC (three times).	R.I. for 07 years and fine of Rs.2,000/-, in default of payment of fine amount, additional R.I. for 06 months.
	Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the appellant is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the case. He further submits that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and there is no motive indicating that the appellant committed the offence. He also submits that, as per the medical report, the injured parties had consumed liquor themselves and initiated the quarrel with the appellant, and the incident occurred due to sudden provocation. The maximum sentence imposed upon the appellant is R.I. for 07 years, out of which he has already served approximately 01 year, 08 months, and 04 days. Given that the appeal is likely to take considerable time for final disposal, it is prayed that the appellant be released on bail and his jail sentence be suspended till the final disposal of the case. On the other hand, learned State counsel opposes the bail application. I have heard learned counsel appearing for the parties and perused the material available on record.

Sourabh P.	Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, particularly the nature and gravity of the offence and the material available on record against the appellant, this Court is not inclined to grant bail to the appellant. Accordingly, the IA No. 01/2026 is rejected. List this cases for final hearing in the month of July, 2026. Sd/- (Sanjay Kumar Jaiswal) Judge
