A small typographical error had occurred in the description of the fourth defendant, who had been described in the short cause-title, long cause-title and in the statement of addresses as Jeenath Banu. The correct name is Zeenath Banu. Since this correction does not in any manner affect the pleadings, a memo was directed to be filed on behalf of the plaintiff. Because of this mistake, the learned counsel for the fourth defendant, who had been instructed to file vakalat for the fourth defendant, could not file vakalat and the said vakalat had been returned by the Registry since she spelled her name is Zeenath Banu. A memo had been filed, which is recorded. On the strength of the said memo, that typographical error may be corrected by the counsel for the plaintiffs in the short cause-title, long cause-title and in the statement of addresses, in the plaint and in the cause-title to any applications, which are pending in the suit. An amended plaint copy /application copy may also be filed by the plaintiff.
