HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE ANIL KUMAR CHOUDHARY

By the Court:- Heard the parties.

2. This Criminal Miscellaneous Petition has been filed invoking the jurisdiction of this Court under Section 528 of the B.N.S.S. 2023 with a prayer to quash the entire criminal proceeding including the order dated 09.01.2024 passed in connection with Sessions Trial No.776 of 2023 arising out of Nirsa P.S. Case No.390 of 2020, corresponding to G.R. Case No.1311 of 2021 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Dhanbad, whereby and whereunder learned Sessions Judge, Dhanbad has framed charges under Sections 325 and 307 of the Indian Penal Code.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner and learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 jointly draw the attention of this Court towards Interlocutory

Application No. 2324 of 2025, which is supported by the separate affidavits of the petitioner and the informant/opposite party No.2 and submit that therein it has categorically been mentioned that during the pendency of the case, the petitioner and O.P. No.2 have entered into a compromise with the intervention of the well-wishers and close relatives and the informant/O.P. No.2 does not want to proceed with the case. It is next jointly submitted that the dispute is purely a personal dispute between the parties and no public policy is involved. It is next submitted that neither any sharp cutting weapon nor any fire arm was used in the alleged occurrence and some exaggeration was made to make the case a serious one. It is next submitted that petitioner and the informant are the brothers both being the son of Late Jaganath Saw. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that in view of the compromise between the parties, the continuation of this criminal proceeding will amount to abuse of process of law; as in view of the compromise, the chance of conviction of the petitioner is remote and bleak. It is lastly submitted that the entire criminal proceeding including the order dated 09.01.2024 passed in connection with Sessions Trial No.776 of 2023 arising out of Nirsa P.S. Case 390 of 2020 corresponding to G.R. Case No.1311 of 2021 which is now pending in the court of learned Sessions Judge, Dhanbad be quashed and set aside.

4. Learned Addl.P.P. appearing for the State and learned counsel for the O.P. No.2 submit that in view of the compromise between the parties, the state has no objection for quashing and setting aside the entire criminal proceeding including the order dated 09.01.2024 passed in connection with Sessions Trial No.776 of 2023 arising out of Nirsa P.S. Case 390 of 2020 corresponding to G.R.

Case No.1311 of 2021 which is now pending in the court of learned Sessions Judge, Dhanbad.

5. Having heard the rival submissions made at the Bar and after going through the materials available in the record, it is pertinent to mention here that the Hon'ble Supreme court of India in the case of Narinder Singh and Others vs. State of Punjab & Another reported in (2014) 6 SCC 466, in paragraph 29, has laid down the principles by which, the high court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties, and exercising its power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings which, reads as under:

"29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:

29.1. Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.

29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:

(i) ends of justice, or

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court.

While exercising the power the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

29.3. Such a power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for the offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.

29.4. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.

29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore are to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delicate parts of the body, nature of weapons used, etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the latter case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge-sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come to a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime." (Emphasis supplied)

6. Because of the complete settlement between the offender and the victim, the possibility of conviction of the petitioner is remote and bleak and continuation of the criminal case would put the petitioner to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim.

7. Hence, this Court is of the considered view that this is a fit case where the entire criminal proceeding including the order dated 09.01.2024 passed in connection with Sessions Trial No.776 of 2023 arising out of Nirsa P.S. Case 390 of 2020 corresponding to G.R. Case No.1311 of 2021 which is now pending in the court of learned Sessions Judge, Dhanbad as prayed for by the petitioner, be quashed and set aside.
8. Accordingly, the entire criminal proceeding including the order dated 09.01.2024 passed in connection with Sessions Trial No.776 of 2023 arising out of Nirsa P.S. Case 390 of 2020 corresponding to G.R. Case No.1311 of 2021 which is now pending in the court of learned Sessions Judge, Dhanbad is quashed and set aside against the petitioner.
9. In the result, this Cr.M.P. stands allowed.
10. In view of disposal of the instant Cr.M.P., I.A. No.2324 of 2025 stands disposed of accordingly.
