Present revision petition has been filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India preferred by petitioner-applicant who is respondent No.7 before learned Executing Court for early disposal of his application under Order XXI Rule 100 and Section 151 CPC, whereby applicant-petitioner sought repossession and restoration of the possession of property as same was taken wrongly beyond the scope of judgment and decree dated 16.05.2002.

filing reply neither reply has been filed nor any action on application has been taken. Learned counsel for the petitioner-applicant asserted that non-disposal of application is causing immense loss to the applicant-petitioner. Admittedly, the application is pending since 06.08.2025 and despite 08 opportunities, reply has not been filed. Keeping in view the nature of application and allegations made therein, the expeditious disposal of application is warranted.

4. Accordingly, learned Court of First Instance is directed to decide the application preferred by applicant-petitioner within the next 03 months from date fixed. Revision petition is accordingly disposed of in above terms.

5. Pending application(s), if any, is/are disposed of accordingly.
