HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE ARUN MONGA

Order

01/10/2024

Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the dishonored cheques were issued in good faith to the complainant as part of a property transaction. Pursuant to which, the complainant purchased a residential property from the petitioner. Since there was some delay in execution of the sale deed qua the same, the complainant insisted that in order to secure her rights for ensuring execution of the sale deed, the petitioner ought to give the cheques as a security. He submits that subsequently, the sale deed was also executed. And yet, the cheques have been misused by the complainant without there being any legally enforceable debt.

Issue notice, returnable on 18.11.2024.

Meanwhile, as a one time measure, learned trial Court to adjourn the matter pending before it beyond the date fixed by this Court.
