Amicus curiae appointed by us is not present today.
The respondent is in jail as he could not procure a surety for him. Even so, we cannot allow the respondent to remain in jail because as on today there is no conviction or even an order of preventive detention passed against him. We issued onlyailable warrants as against him. We, therefore, direct the trial judge to order his release on his executing a personal bond in such sum as the trial judge deems fit. The order should be communicated to the trial judge without delay.
