Having heard the learned A.S.G. for the petitioners and Mr. Sree Kumar, learned counsel appearing for the respondent, even though there may be some substance in the submission made by the learned A.S.G., we do not think a case for our interference has been made out in exercise of powers under Article 136 of the Constitution of India, particularly in view of the finding of the Revisional Authority under the Statute. The special leave petition accordingly stands dismissed.
